Coal Prices and Steamboat Rates. Much anxiety is expressed by the managers of the steamboat lines here over the proposed advance of 75c. per ton in the price of soft coal after April 1. They are now, it is stated, paying as high as $5.00 per ton for fuel, and with the advance and the increase in freight rates added, it will cost, it is estimated, from $5.50 to $6 per-ton. At this price, it is declared, it will be impossible to operate steamboats at a profit, as the freight and passenger rates now prevailing were based on coal at from $2.75 to $3.25 per ton, deliveed on the wharves. It is more than probable the advance in the vance in freight and passenger rates on the Court Did Not Believe Him.

William Brown, colored, was convicted in the Police Court this morning on a charge of theft, and Judge Scott directed that he be deprived of his liberty for the next two months in default of a fine of $20. Brown recently came into possession of a bicycle which, he told a number of friends, he had purchased from a drunken man for $2.50. Precinct Detective O'Dea, who was looking for a bicycle belonging to Charles A. Ross of the geological survey, which was stolen Tuesday night from in front of 708 2d street northwest, where Mr. Ross was making a visit, located Brown, and after seeing the wheel placed him under arrest, the silent steed proving to be the property of Mr. Ross. "I bought it cheap from a man who must think more of whisky than he does of the wheel," Brown declared, when he was called on by Judge Scott to explain how he came into possession of the wheel.

"Do you know the man?" Judge Spott inquired.

"Not his name; but I would know him if I ever saw him again."
"I've heard that story before," the court told Brown, "and I don't believe it."

On Charge of Bribery.

A press dispatch from Cleveland, Ohio, tells of the arrest there of W. H. Ramage of this city on a charge of attempting to bribe an election official. It is alleged that he offered James H. Finigan, a democratic election judge, $100 if he would do what he could for the success of the republican mayoralty ticket. Mr. Ramage is a Canadian by birth, but has lived in the United States many years. He resides at Langdon with his wife and children. He is a democrat of the Henry George type, and did what he could to assist in the two Bryan campaigns. Friends of Mr. Ramage in this city were surprised when they heard of his arrest. He was a book agent at one time and also worked for a local firm of dentists. So far as his friends know he is not connected with any political organization.

The former was found dead at his latte dropped dead while working at 1323 M street northwest. Chapman was fortyfive years old. He had been sick, and a certificate was given showing that his death was due to an attack of congestion of the lungs. Minor was a window cleaner, sixty years old, and lived at 1440 Madison street. He, too, had been sick. He was seated on a stepladder cleaning a window when an attack of heart disease ended his life. The coroner gave the necessary certificate and the body was removed to the aged man's late home.

SERVANT QUESTION IS VITAL. Washington Merchant Talks of Bill

Introduced in Virginia Legislature. "I'm glad to see that the members of the Virginia legislature have the nerve to tackle the servant question," remarked a well-known business man to a Star reporter this morning. "I say nerve advisedly. Nobody will question that it requires nerve to take a stand in the matter of servants. At my house we are simply at the mercy of servants all the time. It's not a question of plainly a matter of what the latter will do with us." passed the Virginia legislature this week, and which the governor will no doubt sign. This bill provides that if any person shall knowingly entice, persuade or procure any servant who shall have contracted in writing or orally to serve his employer to un-lawfully leave the service of his master or employer, then such person and servant may be sued singly or jointly by the master or employer, and on recovery may have judgment for double the value of the actual damages sustained." A penalty of $100 or three months' imprisonment is provided for a violation of the law.

"Such a law," the merchant said, "would be a good thing for this city. During the past year I have lost four domestics, simply for the reason that neighbors have offered them more money or some other in ducement to get them away. The result is that I have had to eat my breakfast in lunch rooms and other places when such should not have been the case. One of the meanest things that a person can do, in my opinion, is to entice a servant from a neighbor, and the person who does it should be severely dealt with."
